

Lecture 3

Fukuoka Prefecture's "One Health" Certification System

Seigo Fujii

Chief, Production Safety Unit, Food Safety and Local Production for Local Consumption Division, Department of Agriculture, Forestry and Fisheries, Fukuoka Prefecture

The Fukuoka One Health Certification System was established to certify agricultural, forestry, and fishery products that are produced and sold in accordance with the One Health philosophy. Fukuoka Prefecture also disseminates information regarding various One Health initiatives in the agriculture, forestry, and fisheries industries by using platforms such as the certification logo, FAVA Congress, and a dedicated website. We will promote the production and consumption of local food by deepening people's understanding of how the One Health practice will lead to the next generation of food and agriculture, and by encouraging consumers to choose certified agricultural, forestry, and fishery products.